

Professor Wong Suk-ying
BEd (Liverpool); MA, PhD (Stanford)
Associate Vice-President
Professor, Department of Sociology
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Professor Wong Suk-Ying is currently the University Associate Vice-President, Professor in the Department of Sociology and Director of the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid.

Professor Wong received her undergraduate training at the University of Liverpool (UK) and obtained her PhD from Stanford University (USA). She has been on the teaching faculty at other higher education institutions in the United States and Japan before joining CUHK. Her teaching and research profession began with a Spencer Post-doctoral Fellowship award from the US National Academy of Education and a named Distinguished Junior Research Fellow by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science. She has received major research grants from the Research Grant Council, Hong Kong SAR and the Bilateral Hong Kong RGC-UK Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC).

Professor Wong's primary research expertise involve the sociology of education, organisations and higher education. She is also a recipient of the CUHK Faculty of Social Science Exemplary Teaching Award (2004) and the Vice-Chancellor's Exemplary Teaching Award (2005).

Besides her notable achievements in research and teaching, Professor Wong also possesses extensive experience in university administration. She was the Associate Dean of the Faculty of Social Science of CUHK (2008-2013), the Founding Dean of Students of CW Chu College (2012-2016), and has been the University Director of Admissions and Financial Aid since 2013.

Professor Wong also demonstrates an active record of community service both at home and abroad. Currently, she serves as member of the Board of Management, Joint University Programmes Admissions System (JUPAS), Subject Specialist for the Hong Kong Council for Accreditation of Academic and Vocational Qualifications, and former Co-President of the Comparative Education Society of Asia. By invitation, Professor Wong was Honorary Guest Professor with the School of Ethnology and Sociology, Minzu University of China (2005).